

WOODWARD
LEWIS

Facilitating change – positively and effectively

Lesley Price BA (Hons), PGCE, Affiliate CIPD,

Lesley is an experienced Human Resource professional, specialising in the development of people and teams. She is an excellent coach, facilitator and designer of development and assessment activities and is passionate about enabling individuals, teams and organisations to achieve their potential.

Specialist Skills

- Team strategies and development
- Development and facilitation of group coaching
- Facilitation of Leadership Development Centres
- Customer Focused Leadership
- Training of Assessors for Graduate Assessment Centres
- Experienced Interviewer and Assessor for Recruitment & Selection
- Design of Competency/Skills Analysis Frameworks for Performance Management
- Design & Delivery of Personal Effectiveness & Business Skills Programmes
- Delivery of Open and In-company Management & Personal Development Courses
- 1:1 Coach for Interpersonal Effectiveness & Skills Development
- Assertiveness skills

Lesley has worked successfully with a wide range of clients, including The Royal Society of Medicine, DEFRA, medical practitioners,

IBM, Better Government for Older People, local authorities and major retail chains. She spent fifteen years in Human Resource Management with Marks and Spencer, where she was responsible for co-ordinating and facilitating the internal coaching programme. She supported change management, business development and training evaluation. She also has five years' experience of working in the public sector, in Education. Recently she has been coaching a number of people, including Senior Managers and Directors, on creating CV's and improving their interview techniques for career progression.

Qualifications

- BA Hons Degree in Geography, Portsmouth
- PGCE University of London, Kings College
- Qualified Teacher Status for Secondary Education
- Diploma in Performance Coaching for Business, Newcastle 2003
- Trained as a PD facilitator